

"I'm giving the rug a shampoo!"

Don't Be Flippant Second Time Around

At a party recently where there was too much to drink I heard a smug man say loudly, "She knew the score when she married me. After all, I was married to someone else when she started running around with me. She took me away from my other wife, so now let her stew awhile. If I play around a bit it's no more than she should expect."

At another party later, I overheard his insecure wife snapping belligerently, "Well, two can play the same game." She played. But as it turned out it wasn't exactly a game either was playing. Their divorce was the item of the month, because it was so full of unnecessary.

Surely you American women can't all be that stupid. Your mothers must have warned you when you were little girls that every man uses that old line, "My wife doesn't understand me." It's as necessary to his masculinity as a decoy is to a duck hunter, a fly to a fisherman or a horn to a moose hunter. How else is he going to keep alive the myth that any man can take care of as many women as can pile themselves up at his feet? At least he keeps trying to prove it. The more fool you, for being part of a pile.

When you start "going out" with a married man you take your own chances, which are as slim as are your chances of reaching shore with a life preserver full of holes.

Until a man moves out of his home, bag and baggage, to set up separate maintenance, hold that line. Most married men who play the field and toy with your affections are doing so out of boredom at home.

But should you be so desperate that you'd rather take your chances, don't put your trap away if you do tie him in a wedding knot of your own.

Don't nag him, pout, complain, be constantly suspicious because you have a guilty conscience, or question his every move or motive.

Au contraire! Work as you've never worked to be beautiful, charming, attentive (without clinging), entertaining, admiring of him, boosting his ego, cooking his specialties, etc.

As the years with you fade a bit he may just for the kick of it drag out his recy once in awhile and float it in the direction of a few old ducks without sense enough to stay in formation.

They'll get shattered in the end, because his heart won't really be in the hunt: There's nothing so comforting to a man than a wife who "really does understand him."

Picket Line Discovery

One of the brightest new stars on the recording horizon is a handsome young lad from Torrance.

He is Frankie Anthony, of 21809 S. Figueroa St., where he resides with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Argento.

The hit record recently waxed by Frankie is "Going to the River," on the Joey label, based in Hollywood. It first broke in the San Francisco area where it is now top 10 on all the radio-TV charts there. The disk is now spreading in popularity to all parts of the country.

Frankie will guest on the Bob Eubanks "Picwick Dance Party" over KTLA-TV this Saturday at 6 p.m. He will, of course, sing his hit record.

The new record star graduated from Banning High in June and was "discovered" singing on a picket line in front of a barber shop in Torrance. He was brought to the attention of songwriter Hal Winn, who in turn, arranged for Joey Records to record Frankie.
